Highway Association Seeks Second North-South Route

At a recent meeting of the Lac la Biche chamber of commerce, M. Maccagno and Michael Hamar were appointed to attend a meeting of Highway No. 36 Association to be held at Castor on Oct. 26.

This highway is being advocated as a second north-south route to take some of the load off No. 2 Highway, and will run from Coutts in the south to Lac la Biche in the North. Much of the road is now in use as a good gravelled highway through east central Alberta, but much remains to be done in the south and north, particularly the section from Lac la Biche to Highway No. 28. The Lac la Biche district is anxiously waiting for this section to be completed as it will greatly shorten the distance to a hard surfaced highway, as well as provide reliable access to all of eastern Alberta.

The fire, of undetermined origin, destroyed a quantity of lumber before it was brought under control.

LAC LA BICHE — An advisory committee to the government, for Local Improvement District No. 102, will be elected at a ratepayers' meeting on Monday, Oct. 17, at 8:00 p.m.

This new departure for ID 102 will enable ratepayers to make recommendations for road requirements and other improvements to the government. Seventeen improvement districts in the province have advisory committees.

A. W. Morrison, deputy minister of municipal affairs, said the meeting is being held in order to acquaint the ratepayers with details of their municipal administration and to afford them the opportunity if they so wish (of selecting for the consideration of the minister of municipal affairs, those persons they consider best qualified to serve as their representatives on an advisory committee to the government.

A. R. Isbister, supervisor of field services, and D. R. Watson, departmental accountant, will attend from Edmonton.

Under the provisions of the ID Act, on request of ratepayers, the government will call a meeting where, depending on the size of the district, three to five members will form an advisory committee. In the case of No. 102, five will be required. This committee makes recommendations on local matters. Alberta District Teachers To Study Cameron Report

The annual convention of the Second Edmonton District of the Alberta Teachers' Association will be held in Edmonton at the Macdonald Hotel on the 17th and 18th of October.

Teachers participating will be from the following areas: Stony Plain School Division, Wetaskiwin County, Lac Ste. Anne School Division, Westlock School Division and Smoky Lake School Division.

Convention president is N. Chodan; secretary, M. Ukrainetz.

Guest speakers include H. K. Collinge, resident manager, Northwestern Pulp and Paper Limited, Hinton, who will speak to a general session at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning about industry's stake in education; Dr. L. E. Vredevoe, from Los Angeles, California; Dr. T. C. Byrne, chief superintendent of schools, and Dr. S. C. T. Clarke, executive secretary of the ATA.

The theme of the convention is "We Take a Look at Ourselves" and its purpose this year is to examine educational principles and practices in the province in the light of the information, assessments and recommendations of the Cameron Report on Education in Alberta. The association, which has co-operated wholeheartedly with the commission from its inception, is continuing an intensive study of the report and its recommendations to determine the implications of it in the theory and day-to-day practice of education in general and teaching and the teaching profession in particular.

Three-fourths of the convention time will be taken up with group sessions, panel discussions, demonstrations and discussions in various subject and philosophical areas. Among the items on the agenda are the addresses already listed; an examination of the new course in Grade 10 Science, and an instructive look at the teaching of second languages in our schools.

One panel, with H. Moreau of Memorial High School in Stony Plain as chairman, will discuss the role and implications of guidance and counselling in schools. Panel members are A. Aldridge, supervisor of guidance, and F. Hanlochko, superintendent of schools.

Accreditation, a principle which received much attention from the Cameron Commission, will be considered in its Alberta setting by a panel consisting of Dr. L. Downey, faculty of education; R. F. Staples, principal of Westlock High School and past president of the ATA; Dr. S. C. T. Clarke, and Dr. Horace F. McCall, principal of Seba Beach school.

school and chairman of the group.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Blair of Westlock, a number of Primary teachers will examine the teaching of mathematics. Wetaskiwin teachers will give a report on an in-service project in language instruction, and Smoky Lake teachers will give a symposium on science in the elementary grades. Lac Ste. Anne teachers will lead a discussion on art in the school curriculum.

Other areas of school curriculum and activity to be studied are physical education, industrial arts, home economics and business education.

A banquet will be held in the Macdonald Hotel on Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. at which Dr. Vredevoe will be guest speaker.

Tuesday afternoon has been set aside for superintendents to meet with their teachers and for professional meetings of the member ATA locals.

Voters Talk Over Problems With Premier

Premier Manning is planning on dropping his role as head of the provincial government once a month in order to meet, as MLA for Strathcona East, his own constituents.

These meetings, depending on how successful was one held Wednesday of this week, will be continued with the view to discussing matters of government business with residents of his constituency. This is an entirely new departure for a person whose time is as fully occupied as a provincial premier and it is hoped that those with matters of importance will take advantage of these opportunities.

The first meeting was held between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. October 12, at room 211 in the Office Building, Bonnie Doon Shopping Centre.

THE Homemakers

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

The rich meaty flavor of steaks and roasts can be intensified by the use of monosodium glutamate. This product has become increasingly important in modern food preparation. Frozen foods in particular, owe their fresh taste to M.S.G. as it is familiarly called.

Also known under various trade names this seasonless seasoning is not distinctive like pepper or celery. Instead it accentuates the basic flavor of the food being consumed.

The meaty flavor of stews, gravies and soups can be made more pronounced by the addition of a small amount of the pure white crystals. Not only meats, but also fish, poultry and many vegetables are improved by MSG, but little or no benefit is obtained with fruits, sweet baked goods, some dairy products and cooked cereals. Most of the new cookbooks are recognizing the importance of this newcomer on the culinary scene and more and more recipes are calling for its addition.

In Canada, manufacture began in 1955 with the installation of a one and a half million dollar plant in Montreal. The raw material is wheat gluten, and dilute hydrochloric solution and caustic soda are used to produce the final product.

Although this such a recent commercial proposition in Canada MSG has been known under other names in the orient for generations. Japanese and Chinese cooks found ways to turn soya beans into highly flavored cauces through processes now known to involve this chemical substance. Dried seaweed used in Japanese cookery was discovered early in this century to contain this monosodium glutamate. Originally it was believed that this compound had a meaty flavor but later scientific research established that the pure product was tasteless and that its value lay in its ability to enhance many flavors by its effect on the taste buds.

The modern housewife — who rarely used dried seaweed in her cooking — is thus helped by chemistry. Yet another of nature's secrets has been discovered by the scientist and made available in a simple form to her.

OVER MY GATEPOST

By Anthony J. Wright

CANADIANS MORE CRUEL TO ANIMALS THAN EUROPEANS, SAYS FEDERATION OF HUMANE SOCIETIES: Richard Taylor, President of the Canadian

Anthony Wright

Federation of Humane Societies, says "Canada is far behind Britain and many European countries in that we accept much cruelty to animals as inevitable and lag in our laws to protect them".

His federation gives two examples of continuing cruelty: the starving and abandoning of some of our thousands of bush horses and the use of the infamous leg-hold trap or gin to catch millions of fur creatures each year.

It seems that with the white man's coming to North America the leg trap came too. For three hundred years animals have been trapped to die a slow and terrible death in the woods or to free themselves by biting off their legs. (Between one-fifth and one-third of all animals trapped gnaw themselves free).

When you consider that in the U.S. ten million muskrats are trapped in a year and that Canadians trap three millions as well as 1½ million squirrels, you have some idea of the monstrous suffering that goes on in the quiet woods. Many trappers dislike their leg-hold traps, the federation notes, but until recently had no alternative.

The Conibear trap which kills instantly and does not damage the pelt is now offered as such an alternative. It is fine for marten, muskrat and beaver and has been altered to be able to cope with the strong neck tendons of mink.

The federation notes that last year Britain outlawed the leg-hold trap but that we continue to "harvest" millions of animals yearly "by this most archaic and brutal means."

RAND PLAN CUTS LOSSES: Put baldly the Rand report on Coal suggests that we salvage the best and let the rest go under if it cannot keep afloat under its own power.

Mr. Justice Rand has turned out a sensible and brave report. He looks a sick industry right in the face. He believes that freight subsidies which were started 32 years ago, really to help the consumer in central Canada, be now done away with. In their place would go a basic subsidy for all coal produced by mines turning out more than 50,000 tons annually. In addition the Nova Scotia mines would get a social subsidy — New Brunswick pits would get a smaller social subsidy. Western mines would be paid merely the basic subsidy of 40 cents per ton for underground coal and 30 cents for stripped charbon.

Rand gives good reasons why coal is in a jam in many countries and good reasons why government must help to keep some mines going. He picks Nova Scotia mines over the others because more towns in the Maritimes have coal as their sole meal ticket than anywhere else in Canada. In the west, says Mr. Rand, families and workers may be moved to oil or gas jobs, but not so in the Maritimes. The government is pondering this and umpteen other reports of royal commissions.

OTTAWA BRIEFS: There are those here who say that when the new gauge for measuring unemployment is applied our job situation will not seem as bad as it does now. Let's hope so . . . halfway through September the Labor Department was a little easier in mind when it discovered that the Unemployment Insurance Fund had gained $17 millions in six weeks. But if it cannot gain in mid-summer, when can it? . . . Two M.P.s who sit next to each other in Commons are Mr. Nartini and Mr. Spencer, who, appropriately runs a night-club . . . If you are under 31, have lived here ten years, are a British subject and bright, you can try for a job in the Trade Commissioner Service. Pay starts at $4,380 and climbs to $15,500. You have much.

Three Acquitted On Theft Charge

Three persons charged with breaking and entering with intent and possession of stolen property in connection with a break-in April 15 of the Canada Permanent Trust Company in Edmonton were acquitted in Alberta Supreme Court.

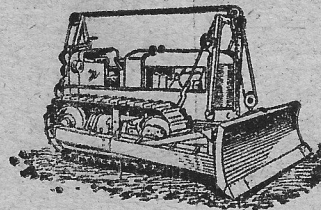

They are Roy Holland, Elsie Holland and Daniel Glowske who were arrested in a nearby hotel room shortly after three men were arrested in the trust company premises.

James Grummett, 25, was sentenced June 23 to 18 months on the same charges, after pleading guilty. Another man, Robert Barber, pleaded not guilty to the charges and now is being sought by police after skipping bail.

Tee-ner Drinking Survey Rejected In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG — The Winnipeg school board rejected a request by the Manitoba Alcohol Education Service to conduct a survey of teenagers and alcohol in city high schools.

The Alcohol Education Service, in a letter to the board, said it wanted to circulate a 94-question survey paper among high school students to lay a factual foundation for assessing alcohol education practices.

The school trustees, unanimous in rejecting the proposal, described the proposed survey as "prying into private lives and homes," using the students as "stool pigeons," and "detailed snooping."

Among questions on the list—to be answered by filling in blanks—were ones asking how often the students attended religious services, the amount of drinking done by both parents and students, and whether students ever visited bootleggers.

Trustee Joseph Zuken took strong exception to one question, asking the student to check one of the alternatives to complete the sentence: "I take ceremonial wine—on religious occasions; never; in church or synagogue; at home."

"If I were a student I would write 'none of your business' across the survey," Mr. Zuken said.

William Potoroka, executive director of the Alcohol Education Service, said in a letter accompanying the survey that the provincial education department "is sympathetic to the survey and appreciates our aims," but has not officially endorsed the plan.

City Schools Superintendent W. C. Lorimer recommended to the board that the survey be authorized. Trustees rejected the recommendation unanimously on a resolution by board member George Frith.

Mr. Potoroka's letter said the survey would be on a voluntary and anonymous basis. However, students would have been asked to give their school code number, age, grade, sex and city of residence.

The service said the answers to specific questions would remain confidential, but the "observations and conclusions deriving from them would be released to the public... and shared with educators in the province and beyond."

Trustee Mrs. W. A. Trott said that if questions regarding minors drinking were answered truthfully, prosecutions could result. She said it would be difficult for a student to remain anonymous in his answers if he filled out the questionnaire in a crowded classroom.

She and several other trustees suggested the students would ridicule some of the questions and give ridiculous answers, which would throw the survey out of perspective.

Sask. Crop Yield Above Estimates

REGINA—Wheat production for 1960 will total about 306,500,000 bushels, for an average yield of 20.6 bushels to the acre, the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool reported here. Ninety-eight per cent of the provincial crop was harvested at Sept. 30.

The Pool said in its final report the estimate is 1,500,000 bushels over the estimate at Sept. 2 when the yield was calculated at 20.5 bushels. The long-term average for the province is 15 bushels to the acre.

The wheat crop was taken off in exceptionally fine harvest weather. And 97 per cent is expected to grade from No. 1 to No. 4. Most of it was harvested in dry condition.

62% In Edmonton Earn Above $4,000

A larger proportion of families in Edmonton are to be found in the "have more" income groups and a smaller percentage in the "have less" category than in most parts of Canada.

The conclusion is based on a Canada-wide, county-by-county breakdown of 1959 incomes, conducted by Sales Management. It shows, for each area, what part of its population falls within each income bracket.

The copyrighted study also reveals, for every community, whether its so-called "average income" is made up of earning that are evenly distributed or whether it represents a small number of families with very large incomes making up for a much greater number with sub-standard incomes.

For Edmonton, the report shows a relatively even distribution as well as a high general average.

Approximately 62.4 per cent of the local households had spendable incomes last year, after taxes, of $4,000 or more.

This compares favorably with the scale of earnings in the rest of Canada, where only 53.4 per cent of all households were in the over-$4,000 brackets.

It was also better than in the province of Alberta, where 53.1 per cent had such earnings.

For the business man in Edmonton, it is a healthy state of affairs, making for a stronger market. It means that more of the local families have available the extra spending money for better food and clothing, for second cars, for washing machines and for luxuries in general.

The overall spending of a large segment of a population enjoying middle-income earnings or better, as is the case locally, produces a greater volume of business than does a high-low income combination, the economists have found.

Also disclosed by the Edmonton income breakdown is the fact that 15.2 per cent of the households were in the $7,000 to $10,000 bracket last year. They accounted for 22.5 per cent of all local earnings.

Those in the $2,500 to $4,000 groups comprised 24.4 per cent of

Cook Appeal Is Rejected

OTTAWA — Robert Raymond Cook, convicted of murder after last year's mass slaying of seven persons at Stettler, Alta., lost his final court appeal against the death sentence.

The Supreme Court of Canada, in a 4-to-1 decision, refused to grant the 28-year-old garage mechanic leave to appeal against his murder conviction. He is scheduled to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan jail Nov. 15.

The case now will be reviewed the households and accounted for 13.8 per cent of the income.

To the 62.4 per cent in the "over $4,000" class went 82.8 per cent of the local income.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK!

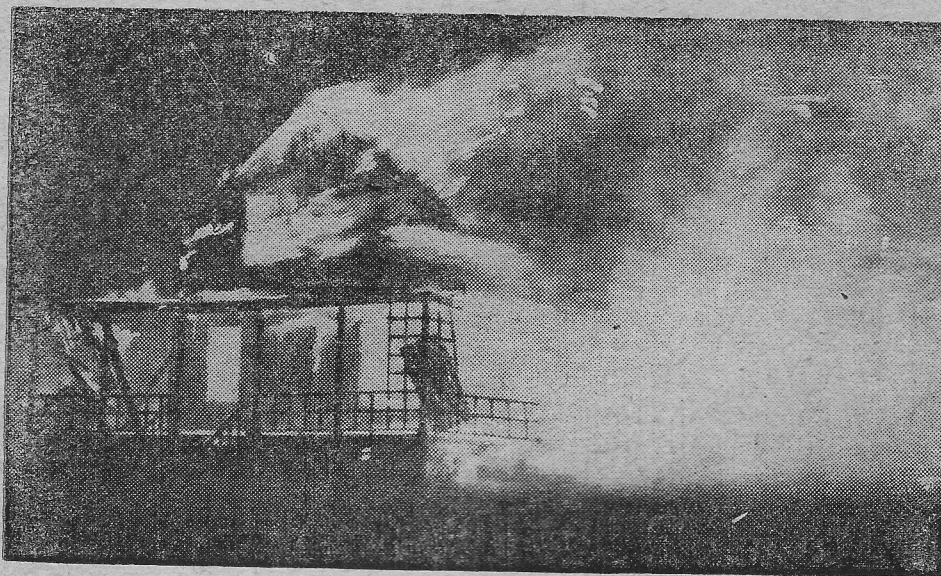

OCTOBER 9-15 — DON'T GIVE FIRE A PLACE TO START

Alberta Boasts 238 Fire Depts.

Communities in Alberta are investing more money in fire protection than in previous years, according to the office of the Alberta Fire Commissioner. There are now 238 municipal fire departments organized in the Province compared with 150 in 1953. Self-propelled pumpers number 221, while in 1953 there were only 143. Throughout the Province today there are 3,440 volunteer fire men associated with organized fire departments. In 1953 there were 2,500 volunteer fire fighters.

The cities in Alberta maintain a per capita ratio of loss totaling less than the Provincial average due to the heavy population and advanced equipment available. The Peace River district of Alberta has the highest loss above average ratio primarily due to the sparse population.

The Alberta Fire Commissioner's office, in co-operation with the local fire department, provides a never-ending campaign against fire through educational and publicity services and inspection. Home owners may request inspection of their premises. Commercial premises and public buildings are inspected to ensure the safety of those employed there. Investigations are carried out on fires that are of unknown or undetermined origin. Local fire department officials are always eager to attend classroom discussions on

LAC LA BICHE FIRE BRIGADE ADVANCES RAPIDLY SINCE 1953

In March, 1953, the town of Lac la Biche purchased a La France fire truck and immediately a Volunteer Fire Brigade was organized around this magnificent pumper.

The La France people coached Constable C. H. Calvert, who was chief of police of the town, in the operation and maintenance of the pumper. It was under Mr. Calvert as fire chief that the brigade was first organized, being 12 in number.

When Mr. Calvert left the area, Robert Stubberville took command of the brigade, but owing to ill health he was obliged to resign a few months later.

E. G. Dobson, local Northland Utilities plant manager here, was proclaimed fire chief on June 24, 1953 and it has been under his able direction that the brigade was operated up to the present time.

Past secretaries who have served the brigade are L. Vincent, R. Rudiger, Ross White, Ted Mackriss, R. Liddle and O. D. Tremblay who is the present secretary. The membership was increased steadily and for the past four years the nominal roll of members has been 21.

Although it has been impossible to prevent the outbreak of fire, each and every fire has been confined to the building in which it originated, and in many cases only slight damage resulted owing to the quick action of the brigade.

Periodic inspections of premises are carried out and fire hazards are noted and brought to the attention of the owners or occupiers with the result that outbreaks of fire are becoming less frequent.

Teams of the brigade have participated in competitions at St. Paul, Bonnyville, Redwater, Two Hills, Westlock and in the Peace River district. In 1956 the brigade played host to visiting teams. On that occasion the team from Westlock won the honors.

It was found necessary to raise funds for expenses of the teams who travelled to annual competitions, therefore the brigade sponsors an annual ham bingo in March which is well supported by the residents of Lac la Biche and surrounding district. The Aurora theatre has contributed in no small manner in supporting and sustaining the brigade.

Many of the original members of the brigade are still serving.

safe fire habits and to outline the dangers of fire to the Province's junior citizens.

A random examination of the Fire Commissioner's report on fire causes shows, frequent references, to "over heated gas stove", "defective heater", "cigarette", "electrical short circuit", "cleaning solvent explodes", "faulty chimney" and "ignition of paint fumes". There is no doubt the largest percentage of fires could be prevented if we were to follow the advice of local and provincial fire protection agencies. Until this happens there will be 12 or more fires tomorrow, the next day and the next. And one person will die every week.

Salute To Volunteer Brigade

In many of the smaller Alberta communities where professional fire services are not maintained, residents relax in the knowledge that their local fire-fighting volunteers are ever on the alert against fire.

These volunteer forces, made up of fellow-citizens who are of all ages and from every walk of life—farmers, merchants, businessmen—give of their time and effort in studying and practising the latest techniques in fire prevention and combat methods.

Albertans everywhere salute the volunteer fire-fighters of the nation.

Another word disliked by the fire expert: fireproof. Don't be misled by exaggerated claims of a glib salesman. A more honest expression: fire retardant or fire resistant.

Big Fires On The Up

If Canada is beginning to arrest the rising trend in property fire losses in recent years, it isn't in terms of really "large loss" fires — fires of upwards of a quarter of a million dollars.

Estimate of the cost of 46 of these big fires in 1959 exceeds $25 millions, compared with the $20 millions taken by 35 major fire in 1958.

What's the reason for a minor fire becoming a major disaster? Factors of construction faults, absence of protective sprinkler and alarm systems usually play a part.
